

C1 Divesting Funds from Police Forces and Investing in communities

Proposer: Kelsey Trevett (Oxfordshire Green Party)

Agenda item: C Resolutions of Executive Committee Priorities

Summary

The Young Greens support campaigns to divest funds away from police forces, border enforcement agencies, and other carceral institutions. Noting that police forces and other carceral state institutions are violent by design, and that opposition to social violence is a defining principle of Green politics, we call on our wider movement to support campaigns to oppose state violence and dismantle the institutions responsible.

1 The Young Greens notes:

- 2 • Opposition to systematic violence across society is a fundamental
3 principle of Green politics;
- 4 • The Green Party has a proud history of calling for the abolition of
5 violent state institutions including, in a 2019 Conference co-leader's
6 speech, the Home Office;
- 7 • Police forces routinely engage in racial profiling, with black people 8 being nine times more likely as of 2018 to be stopped and searched;
- 9 • Since 1990 significantly over 1,500 people have died in police custody,
10 with only one police officer subsequently being convicted;
- 11 • Young people are among those most acutely affected, with young black men 12 disproportionately subject to state violence;
- 13 • The UK government spent £18 billion on policing in 2019/20 – the highest 14 for almost a decade;
- 15 • That police are frequently responsible for the descent of peaceful 16 demonstrations into physical confrontations, and frequently use such 17 confrontations to discredit campaigners;
- 18 • That the persistent use of carceral approaches to social problems in other
19 spheres directly harms young people from marginalised communities,
20 including the use of exclusions in state schools.

21 The Young Greens believes:

- 22 • Violence inflicted by the state should be opposed, as a key principle of 23 Green politics;
- 24 • Violence inflicted by the state on people should not be understood as 25 uniquely legitimate or justified because it was performed by the state;
- 26 • Police forces and other carceral institutions are fundamentally designed 27 to contain, suppress and even inflame the discontents caused by an unequal
28 system, rather than address their causes;
- 29 • As the climate crisis intensifies states are increasingly turning to 30 carceral institutions, such as militarised border control and police
31 action, to control its discontents rather than addressing the crisis at 32 the root;
- 33 • Funding spent on carceral approaches to containing social problems could 34 and should be directed to services that address the causes of such 35 problems;
- 36 • The persistent focus by politicians, media institutions, and others on 37 carceral approaches to containing social problems distracts from the real 38 solutions that are needed;
- 39 • Police forces in England and Wales, and around the world, are 40 institutionally racist, perpetuating structural oppression, and leading to 41 increased danger to the lives and wellbeing of black and minority ethnic 42 people;
- 43 • Drawing down funding to police forces and other carceral institutions
44 would benefit those groups, including people of colour, travellers, women,
45 LGBTIQ+ people, and the working class, who are most acutely affected by 46 the harms they cause.

47 The Young Greens resolves:

- 48 • To proactively support campaigns to draw funds away from police forces,
49 border enforcement agencies, and other carceral institutions;
- 50 • To campaign for the reinvestment of funds into public services and 51 communities, for purposes including but not limited to housing,
52 employment, youth services, healthcare, and ending poverty.

C2 Delivering Justice for Students

Proposer: Jane Baston (York)

Agenda item: C Resolutions of Executive Committee Priorities

Summary

This year has seen students pushed back into high-cost campus accommodation, left with minimal financial support from the government and a lack of wellbeing support. This resolution identifies some key areas for the Young Greens to campaign on to deliver justice for students.

1 The Young Greens notes:

- 2 • The FE and HE sectors are experiencing a financial crisis like never
3 before. The effects of neoliberal marketisation is causing senior managers
4 to push financial risk off onto students and staff.
- 5 • In light of the financial crisis, and the over-reliance on tuition fees,
6 many universities are using metrics or hidden evaluation techniques to
7 implement large scale changes to their courses, shutting whole departments
8 and making large numbers of staff redundant.
- 9 • Throughout the pandemic the government has offered very little support to 10 students, instead leaving financial and wellbeing support to the 11 discretion of individual institutions.
- 12 • According to the NUS three in five students say that Coronavirus has had 13 some degree of impact upon their income.¹ Students have faced increasing 14 financial difficulties this year with around a fifth of students have 15 fallen into rent arrears with their landlord and a similar portion have 16 fallen behind on utility bill payments.
- 17 • Students have been increasingly isolated due to the lack of socialising
18 which has exacerbated poor mental health and wellbeing. Universities
19 provide inadequately funded mental health support that is often
20 overwhelmed
- 21 • Online teaching has been something that disabled students have campaigned
22 for in order to improve their access to their education.

23 The Young Greens believes:

- 24 • That due to the neoliberal model of university funding, students are being 25 treated like cash cows, being milked through sky high rent on student
26 accommodation and extortionate tuition fees.
- 27 • Education should be free and accessible for all.
- 28 • That campaigning for reduced tuition fees strengthens the narrative that 29 education is a commodity that can be paid and has a monetary value.
- 30 • That metrics should not be used to determine the worth of a course or use 31 to make decisions regarding the employment of staff.
- 32 • That universities are institutions for the public good and shouldn't be 33 focused on creating profits that necessitates severance of staff.
- 34 • That students deserve full living grants and proper financial support that 35 allows them to focus on their studies while living a decent standard of 36 life.
- 37 • That many decisions taken by university senior management have been to 38 protect the financial interest of their institutions and not the safety
39 and wellbeing of their staff and students.

40 The Young Greens resolves:

- 41 • To campaign for the abolition of tuition fees, the introduction of living 42 rents for all, and a write off of student debt.
- 43 • To stand in solidarity and campaign with UCU against any job cuts at 44 universities across England and Wales.
- 45 • To stand in solidarity with student rent strikers pushing back on poor 46 treatment of students and staff.
- 47 • To campaign with disabled students to ensure that education is accessible.
48 That online alternatives made necessary due to the pandemic are kept and 49 that appropriate support is put in place.
- 50 • To campaign for robust academic support and simple mitigation policies for 51 all students.
- 52 • To campaign for universities to prioritise student wellbeing by providing 53 comprehensive welfare support and mental health services.
- 54 • To campaign for the democratisation of universities where staff and 55 students are properly enabled to make and enact decisions at all levels of 56 the university.
